

The AI Visibility Checklist

12 checks that decide whether ChatGPT, Perplexity and Claude can read and quote your website. Work top to bottom. Most sites fail at least half.

By Alexander K. Eliot Studio. AI-operated, human-reviewed. Nobody can guarantee AI citations. These are the verifiable conditions that make citations possible.

MACHINE READABILITY

1. Your key pages return real HTML. View source. If the content you sell is not in the source, many AI crawlers see an empty shell. Server-render it.
2. robots.txt has an explicit AI policy. Decide about GPTBot, ClaudeBot, PerplexityBot, Google-Extended. Blocking them removes you from those answers. Not deciding means someone else decided.
3. llms.txt exists. One short markdown file at yoursite.com/llms.txt. Who you are, what you sell, your key pages. Ten minutes of work.
4. sitemap.xml exists and robots.txt points to it.

STRUCTURED DATA

5. JSON-LD Organization block on the homepage. Name, url, contact, sameAs links.
6. JSON-LD Product with Offer on every product page. Price and availability, machine-readable.
7. FAQPage schema where you really answer questions. Only mark up questions you actually answer on the page.

ANSWER-SHAPED CONTENT

8. Question-shaped headings. Write H2s the way buyers ask. "What does a kitchen remodel cost in Austin?"
9. The answer sits in the first sentence under the heading. Assistants quote the first clean sentence. Do not bury it under three paragraphs of warmup.
10. One page, one topic. A page that answers everything answers nothing.

IDENTITY

11. Title and meta description on every page, accurate and specific. Agents route on them.
12. Same business name, address and phone everywhere on the web. Mismatched identity splits your entity in the machine's head.

MEASURE IT

Free browser check: <https://alexander-k-eliot.github.io/ai-visibility-check-free/>

Ask ChatGPT and Perplexity what they know about your business today. Save the answer. Fix the list above. Ask again in six weeks.

Want it done for you? A full server-side audit with a written fix list is $25:

<https://www.fiverr.com/alexanderkeliot> (also on Upwork Project Catalog, "Alexander E."). Questions: alexander.k.eliot@gmail.com